Late task performance, correction of grades, making up missed classes	Tasks should be submitted via Moodle by the deadlines stipulated in the course schedule on our website. Most tasks should be performed by 9 a.m. on the day of the next class to coordinate them with the course content and group activities. It is best practice to perform tasks as soon as possible after receiving them so that you have enough time to take an active part in the class.
	If you need more time to perform the task, flexible deadlines are available. Completed tasks will be accepted until full credit until the last scheduled class in the discipline. Afterwards, the 40% partial credit based on the grade will be awarded within a week after the last day of class. Tasks that are not submitted at all will receive 0.

	If you are going to miss classes for more than one week due to illness or other reasons, please contact your lecturer to arrange alternative options for performing tasks. Note: deadlines work both ways, and meeting them ensures that your lecturer will provide prompt feedback on your tasks to make sure you keep up with the course. QR Code:
Lecturer's response time	Via corporate e-mail, within 24 hours.
Efficient communication	Efficient communication is a two-way street!!! Therefore, the main recommendations for efficient communication include: corporate e-mail directly to the course lecturer; personal communication with classmates via social media/corporate e-mails/mobile phones; communication directly in the course on the Moodle distance platform; and a face-to-face meeting with the lecturer on consulting days.
Policy of publication and distribution of course materials	Students are not allowed to post, publish, sell, or otherwise publicly distribute course materials without the written permission of the lecturer. Such materials include, but are not limited to: lecture notes, lecture slides, video or audio recordings, tasks, problem sets, exams, other students' work, and answer keys. Students who sell, post, publish, or distribute course materials without written permission in order to get answers or otherwise can be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including being required to withdraw from the course. Besides, students are not allowed to make video or audio recordings of the class for their own use without the written permission of the lecturer.
Expected student workload and engagement	During this course, you should allocate some hours for independent study of some lecture materials in accordance with the course topics (approximately 5-6 hours per week). If you face circumstances requiring you to spend more time on any of the tasks, please inform your lecturer by e-mail. The deadline for submission can be extended only if the lecturer is informed in advance that you will not be able to submit the task on time. Students are expected to have a backup plan in case of computer malfunctions or Internet outages.
